Four-year-old Andrew Sumandig, of El Centro, details his father’s (Benji Sumandig) car during the Proyecto Heber car show Saturday afternoon.

“Car show is a real fun thing, I can’t wait for next year,” he said.

Many kids came out to take a look at the cars. Unlike previous years, this year cars were allowed to drive in the show. The cars were judged on how they were restored and looked. A winner was chosen Saturday afternoon.

Another car show is expected to happen this fall and winter.

Proyecto Heber was created three years ago to give Heber a better name, a better image, said co-founder Diahna Shawii.

“Today is our annual open house. We’re opening our doors to the public so they can take a look at our facilities as well as have fun time, get some show art and grab some safety presentation materials,” said Shawii.

In addition, the public also had the unique opportunity to watch a vehicle extrication using the Jaws of Life tool to cut through a car. This gives people a chance to come and explore how people are taught in the fire service.

“We started our organization to give Heber a better name, a better image,” said co-founder Diahna Shawii. “We’re not a city so you don’t have a recreation department and so everything we do we have to do ourselves.”

“I promised him I’d bring him down here. He and his older brother, Kevin Kelley, IID general manager, was there to watch and bring my kid out to the fire house, he noticed one of the fire fighters, she added.

“Sometimes errors occur in any activity that involved knockin’ the fire hose down, he said.

“The event gave local kids a chance to come and explore how they’re going to want to be fire fighters,” she said.

“Young kids want to be fire fighters,” she added.

“I started the organization to give Heber a better name, a better image,” said co-founder Diahna Shawii.

Shawii is made and used.

There was a video, displays and also tours and plenty of safety demonstrations.

“It’s very interesting. You get a feel of what it’s like to be a firefighter,” said Joselito Villero.

“It’s a real fun thing, I can’t wait for next year,” he said.

At the event, there were also demonstrations of wood while others bid for handmade pottery, jewelry and more in the silent auction.

“This is my first time coming here. We used to see all the firstsiders, she said. ‘It’s nice. It’s good.’

Local Judah Sotelos wanted to come and explore how people are taught in the fire service. “It’s good to come here and bring my kid out to see what firefighters do,” she said.
